Denham elected mayor

First new mayor in 14 years

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Retired police captain Harold "Jim" Denham easily beat incumbent mayor Glen Wilson and Trustee Randy Presswood to become the first new mayor in Pontoon Beach in 14 years.

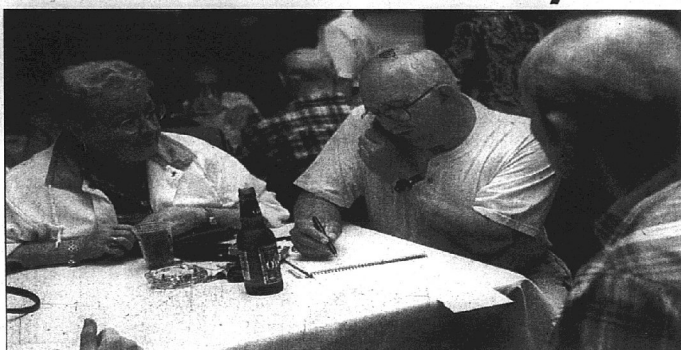

The entire slate of Denham's New Beginnings Party won, giving him half the Village Board and the village clerk position.

The other half of the board had been political allies of Wilson and his Continuous Action Party.

"I'm thinking this is a great day for Pontoon Beach," Denham said. "We're going to get Pontoon Beach moving and back on track."

At Denham's election party at Ralph and Charlie's, supporters were jubilant at the news.

"It was a great campaign we won," he said. "When we campaigned, we were just being honest with the people."

Pontoon Beach Mayor-elect Jim Denham and supporters eagerly await election returns Tuesday night at Ralph and Charlie's Steakhouse in Pontoon Beach.

We told them what we could do, what we wanted to do; we didn't make any promises that we knew we couldn't keep.

"We told them we wanted to give the village back to them, get it going, and give them a town they could be proud of," Denham said. Wilson's party at the Ramada Inn Limited was very subdued, with some of Wilson's supporters complaining about opponents' "negative campaigns."

Wilson - whose wife has been ill - left the party early. On Wednesday, he had little to say about the race.

"We were beat, that's all I can tell you," he said.

Fire hits apartments Madison Ave. building leveled

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

At midnight, residents of the apartments at 1244 Madison Ave. were asleep or getting ready to go to bed.

By 4 a.m., a fire had left them homeless, and eight hours later all that was left of the building was a pile of rubble and a few possessions they either grabbed on the way out during the fire or firefighters pulled out later.

By about 9 a.m., the fire was out, except for a brief flare-up. Insurance agents and the building inspector had already been to the scene. The building was condemned and Madison Street Superintendent Ron Grzywacz was unloading heavy equipment to demolish the building.

The building, owned by Buzz York, housed a liquor store and 19 sleeping rooms. The building was destroyed by the fire, and was taken down within hours because the front outside wall was buckling.

Two people were hospitalized: one resident suffered smoke inhalation and a second resident suffered chest pains.

Two people were hospitalized. One resident, Russell Legate, suffered smoke inhalation, while a second resident was hospitalized later with chest pains.

Fire Chief Mike Foley said the blaze apparently started when Legate, one of 19 residents in the building, fell asleep while smoking.

When he woke up, Legate ran through the building alerting other residents, who grabbed what they could and fled. Legate then apparently went back into the building for another resident who had

Five of six re-elected to Granite City council

Former alderman Miller returns to council with win over Partney

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

Five Granite City aldermen who faced challenges for their seats were retained by voters Tuesday, while the open seat in the Second Ward was claimed by Jim Miller.

First Ward incumbent Bob Page, who was running for a four-year term, defeated Joseph McGinness Sr. Page received 73 percent of the vote.

"I know there wasn't a large voter turnout. For those who went to the polls in my ward and supported me, I'd like to thank them not only for their support but also for confidence," Page said.

Miller, an alderman from 1997 to 1995, defeated perennial candidate David Partney for a four-year term. Of the 484 votes cast, Miller received 293, or 61 percent.

"I'm very happy to have won," Miller said. "I would seriously like to thank the people who supported me."

Fourth Ward Alderman Robert Leo Wofford, who was running for a four-year term, defeated three opponents. Wofford received 42 percent of the vote. His closest challengers were Donna Davis and Emerald E. Dawes, both of whom received 22 percent.

Fifth Ward Alderman Eddie Asadorian also defeated three challengers to his seat.

Asadorian, who received 39 percent of the vote, saw his closest challenge from Brenda Whitaker, who received 27 percent.

Fifth Ward Alderman Lurton Pulley received 51 percent of the vote in defeating two opponents for a two-year term.

His closest challenger, Ted Hoffman, received 25 percent of the vote.

Several other aldermen had no opposition in their races, as did Superintendent of Streets Jerry Lakin.

Incumbents were also victorious in two other races for the Granite City Public Library and Granite City Park boards.

Kathy Antoff and Ronald L. Coleman easily defeated challenger Arno Sponeman in the library race for a six-year term. Antoff received 47 percent of the vote and Coleman received 40 percent, followed by Sponeman's 13 percent.

George Sykes, who was first elected to the Granite City Park Board in 1975, defeated Michael M. Patton for a six-year term for the park board race.

"I'm very happy to have won, I would seriously like to thank the people who supported me."

Glen Carbon couple give house new life as tearoom

By Curtiss A. Hartley
Staff writer

The Glenwood Manor House has had three lives, and with each reincarnation it seems to be getting bigger and fancier.

Thanks to its current owners, Roy and Diane Koberna of Troy, the building at 3506 Illinois 157 in Glen Carbon now is home to a tearoom, restaurant and gift shop that specializes in stained glass.

Diane Koberna said the four-room farmhouse was built in the late 1890s on the site of what is now the library on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

It was facing destruction in the 1960s when the state purchased it to refurbish it for use as the SIUC Chancellor's

When the university decided that the house was too small for its purposes, it was sold to George Janko. Janko moved it piece by piece to its current location and spent about 20 years working on it while it remained unoccupied, Koberna said.

Alternative Spring Break a great idea

Every Illinois college, university ought to promote the concept

By State Rep. Jay Hoffman

For many college students, spring break has come and gone. For most, spring break was memorable and fun, with trips to Florida and other warm-climate destinations.

For many others, though, it was memorable and rewarding because they celebrated their spring break by giving of themselves through community service.

The numbers are not in yet for this year. However, they are expected to exceed the 20,000 students from across the nation who took part in community service activities last year.

Those 20,000 students participated in a wide variety of activities. Some spent their spring break working with the homeless of Washington. Others built new homes for the less fortunate in Appalachia. Still others tutored grade-school children in Arizona, while another group tutored migrant farm workers in Florida.

The list goes on and on, and the possibilities for this type of alternative Spring Break are endless.

I believe the alternative Spring Break concept is an idea that the state of Illinois could, and should, promote.

I am currently in the process of drafting a resolution that will do just that.

In the House resolution that I will be sponsoring, I will call on every state university in Illinois to work together to organize alternative spring break programs. It is my hope that Illinois' universities can offer these programs to their students as early as spring break 2000.

As more and more universities are becoming uneasy about the binge drinking and violence associated with the typical annual spring breaks, I think this is a great idea to redirect the energy of young people.

Illinois universities need to actively promote community service as a better opportunity and a more rewarding spring break alternative. I firmly believe that if we offer this generation of young people the opportunity to make a difference, they will accept this challenge wholeheartedly.

If you are interested in finding out more about this legislation, please feel free to contact me. My Collinsville office is located at 126 Vandavia, Suite 1, and can be reached at 345-2176.

Collinsville office hours are Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. We are also open from 8:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday evenings and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Our Edwardsville office hours are held from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Fridays.

Please feel free to contact our office if we can be of assistance on any state matter.

Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, is a state representative for Illinois' 11th District.

TO THE EDITOR:
Just weeks ago, Illinois joined 45 other states and signed an agreement with cigarette manufacturers that settled claims for health care reimbursement cost associated with tobacco-related illnesses.

And while some may consider the $6.1 billion and the other provisions included in the settlement as a victory, the war against tobacco in Illinois is far from over.

The American Cancer Society appreciates all the hard work by Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan to bring and keep this public health crisis in the forefront of the nation's attention.

We must now work together and make certain our state leaders implement the public health measures needed to curb cancer caused by tobacco.

It must now be our job and the job of the Illinois legislature to do the right thing with the funds that will come to the state.

For the American Cancer Society, this deal is not about money, rather, it is about protecting the public.

The American Cancer Society pledges to work with our legislators to ensure that the public health is best served by this settlement.

Maybe it's time to try medical marijuana

It certainly can't be any worse than what's out there right now

More years ago than I wish to count, I was party to one of the occasional get-togethers of my father's four sisters.

I don't recall the occasion (possibly a post-funeral reunion), but the scene was my Aunt Lottie's home near Watska and the mood relaxed. And chatty, as usual.

These ladies used to hold late spring picnics, including toddlers for the body, at the family's section of an old cemetery in Indiana. My kids referred to them as the "Snook Sisters," and not without reason.

At any rate, once they'd disposed of current family news, the conversation turned to a most unlikely subject for women in their late 70s and early 80s: Pot.

None of them, of course had ever smoked marijuana and, it turned out, they all expressed regret that they'd never had the chance. Even Helen, who never smoked or drank.

Eventually, they turned to me and asked the inevitable. No, I replied, truthfully. I haven't. I have enough bad habits without acquiring another.

None of them was being judgmental, simply curious, and all agreed that they'd like to try it once and, considering their ages, didn't think they'd develop a dependency and graduate to cocaine.

Carol Clarkin

I'm sure they were right. That afternoon came to mind recently while I was watching the early-evening NBC news.

Three of the four women are now dead, with Marian, the only survivor, having observed her 100th birthday in March.

All of them, I'm sure, would have concurred with my own reaction to one section of Tom Brokaw's report: "It's high time."

That was the news that the Institute of Medicine, affiliated with the National Academy of Sciences, is urging the development of a standard way to legally use marijuana to relieve suffering undergone by people with cancer and AIDS.

The recommendation was made in a report to the federal government and says that chemicals in marijuana ease anxiety and pain, stimulate appetite and reduce nausea and vomiting for both patients undergoing chemotherapy and those with AIDS.

Three of the four women are now dead, with Marian, the only survivor, having observed her 100th birthday in March. All of them, I'm sure, would have concurred with my own reaction to one section of Tom Brokaw's report: "It's high time."

The report adds that smoking cannabis can cause respiratory disease and suggests development of forms other than smoking — such as pills or inhalers — be developed.

But, in the meanwhile, they don't rule out smoking for patients who need such relief.

According to what I've read since the television report, studies of drug delivery are already under way by such groups as the National Institutes of Health and the National Cancer Institute.

But those, like most such studies, will take time, and a representative of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy has been quoted as saying that while some cancer and AIDS patients can be helped by marijuana, there's little market interest among our pharmaceutical companies in doing research into alternative forms of delivery.

That's understandable, I guess, because it's not all that difficult to acquire pot for smoking.

That makes the opposition voiced by Rep. Bill McCollum of Florida, who condemns medical use of marijuana, sound more than a trifle naive.

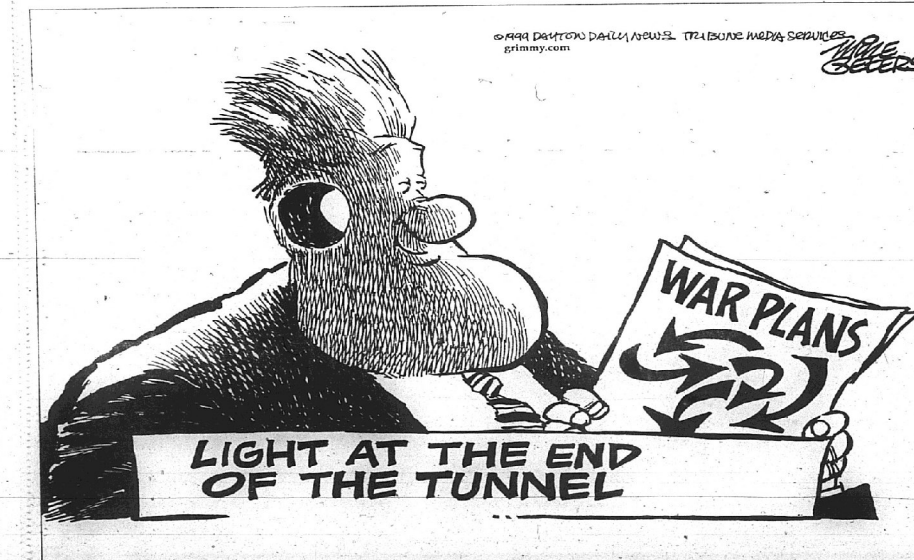

McCollum has voiced deep concern that the current report might encourage young people to smoke grass.

Perhaps the congressman has never lost a family member or friend to cancer or AIDS. For those among us who have, the outlook may differ considerably.

Maybe one has to have been there.

Ideally, such relief should come from the medical community. Legally, until it does, I strongly doubt that legality is a major concern of many of those personally involved.

It wouldn't be to me. Carol Clarkin of Edwardsville is a retired newspaper reporter and editor.

Incumbents re-elected to Madison, Venice boards

Two new faces win Venice Park Board race

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Without an active campaign, Madison School Board write-in candidate Rev. John Love was able to excite much interest in Tuesday's election. And in Venice, three incumbents retained their seats on the School Board. In the Madison district, incumbents Sharon Cass, the present School Board president, Joe Garcia and political newcomer Lynda Becker were picked for three spots on the board.

Love received only 32 votes, according to an unofficial tally by Madison County Clerk Mark Von Nida.

Becker was the high vote-getter, with 430. Cass followed with 422 and Garcia with 417. However, Becker will not take office until November. Becker, who was born in Granite City, has been a Madison resident since 1978. She is a purchasing coordinator for St. Elizabeth Medical Center and has never held or ran for a public office.

"This is my first election, I really don't know what to say," she said Wednesday morning. "I'm very excited. I feel that Sharon, Joe and I worked very hard. I'm very happy that everybody came out and voted for us."

Love was kicked off the ballot after Cass argued that he did not have enough signatures. During hearings by the School Board's Electoral Board, Love and supporters claimed that forces at Madison City Hall were trying to keep him from running. Cass is also Madison City Clerk.

Love could not be reached for comment.

In the Venice School District, incumbents Metro Pierson, Tyrone Q. Echols and William Tyler defeated Linda Matkins and former board member and Venice Alderman Ruby Johnson.

Tyler was the high vote-getter with 181, followed by Echols with 174, Pierson with 162, Johnson with 127, and Matkins with 102.

In the race for the Venice Park District Board, two incumbents — Ricky Williams and Joan Silas — were defeated.

Incumbent Harold Wilson was the top vote-getter with 399, followed by Vincent Valentine with 262, Celestine Williams with 179, Ricky Williams with 151 and Silas with 128.

Rezoning request gets Madison's OK

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A request to rezone property at the intersection of 10th and State streets in Madison was approved by the City Council Tuesday.

The council approved a request by Wright Industrial Inc. to rezone the property from B-4 to B-2 to allow the construction of an office and tool storage building. The request had been approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals the previous night. The company, which does industrial maintenance, is planning an office and tool shed at the location. The office building would occupy about 3,000 square feet, and the storage space another 4,000 square feet.

The council was also informed that the Parks and Recreation Department is seeking a $5,000 grant from the county to pay for recycling containers and shredded tire rubber to be placed under playground equipment. Use of the shredded tire material is becoming more widespread, is easier to maintain and results in fewer playground injuries. The council also approved ordinances for two handicapped parking spaces — one at a residence at 1929 Harris and another at the Madison Public Library at 1700 Fifth St.

In other business, the council: • Approved a low bid of $29,450 from William Nobbe & Co. for a new rotary mower and tractor. The cost of the equipment is to be paid out of the city's tax increment financing funds.

Madison firefighters put out a flare-up of an early Tuesday morning fire that destroyed a liquor store and apartments on the 1200 block of Madison Avenue. The fire was sparked by a person who fell asleep smoking in bed and completely destroyed the structure. Residents of the apartments were assisted in finding temporary housing by the Red Cross.

Police Blotter

Granite City Police

BURGLARY: A home was burglarized at 5:41 a.m. Monday in the 1900 block of State Street.

The front door of the home was kicked in and a television set was stolen. The cost of the damaged door was estimated at $100. The television was valued at $75.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY: Several persons tried to burglarize an office building belonging to the Granite City Park District, located at Benton and Oregon streets, at 5:40 p.m. Monday.

According to a Granite City police report, an attendant working in the building near the office saw three persons trying to pry the office door open with what looked like a crowbar.

The persons, having difficulty opening the door, eventually fled.

TRAILER FIRE: Flames engulfed an abandoned trailer home early Monday morning in the 2300 block of Bryan.

According to a Granite City fire report the blaze, which occurred at 2:36 a.m., is considered suspicious and now is now under investigation by the fire department.

Firefighters responded to the scene, at 1:09 a.m. The blaze was brought under control an hour later.

Damage to the trailer was extensive and estimated to be at about $10,000.

DISTURBANCE: Yvette Cotter, 34, was charged with battery Monday, and her husband, Jeffrey Cotter, 36, was charged the same day with disorderly conduct.

The Cotters were charged in regard to an incident that occurred at a Granite City bar Sunday.

Yvette Cotter, according to a Granite City police report, began arguing with a woman who worked at the bar. During the argument, Yvette Cotter allegedly punched the woman in the nose, breaking it.

Jeffrey Cotter was charged with disorderly conduct for his involvement during the incident.

UI British Brass Band performing Friday concert in Granite City HS

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

Students from Granite City High School, Coolidge Middle School and Grigsby Middle School are in for a musical treat Friday as they will have an opportunity to listen to and interact with members of the University of Illinois British Bass Band.

"I think it's great for our band program. It's always good to expose students to different styles and types of music," said Granite City Band Director Ben Jackels, himself a U of I graduate. The brass band, which will be accompanied by a 12-piece tuba-ensemble euphonium band under the direction of Tuba Professor Mark Moore, is one of a few remaining in the Midwest. It consists of flugel horn, cornets, baritone, alto horn, euphonium, E-flat and B-flat tubas and percussion.

Of more than 900 band members from the University of Illinois band department, the largest college band department in the country, 33 members comprise the band. They were selected from six concert bands, clarinet choir, the basketball band and from 350 members of the Fighting Illini Marching Band. The music the brass band plays is similar to that of a classical concert.

Peter J. Griffin, assistant band director and professor of music at the University of Illinois, said to be selected is quite an honor. "A lot of talent is involved," Griffin said. "They are dedicated and very much enjoy performing."

The bands will perform in the high school auditorium. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Admission to the concert is $1.

Before the evening performances, high school band members, along with those from Grigsby and Coolidge, will have an opportunity Friday afternoon to practice their musical skills individually with University of Illinois band members. A total of 45 band members will make the trip from Champaign-Urbana to Granite City.

Dustin Sendejas, 17, a high school band member who plays the French horn, said that Friday should be a whole lot of fun.

"I'm looking forward to meet them," Sendejas said. "This is fantastic. I'm sure they have a lot of neat and interesting stories to tell." "I want to join the band there," added Mitchell Goldenberg, 18.

Daffy Duck getting very own stamp; celebration scheduled

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

Bugs Bunny, Sylvester and Tweety are classic Warner Bros. animated characters that have transcended from the big screen to the post office as part of a series of Looney Tunes stamps and related products.

The trio will soon be joined on postage stamps by another friend and animated character, Daffy Duck.

The Daffy Duck commemorative stamp will be issued in Hollywood April 16, followed by "Daffy Duck Day" April 17 in more than 2,400 Wal-Mart stores nationwide.

Daffy will be at the Granite City Wal-Mart as well, joined by retail associates from the Granite City Postal Office.

This is a nice way to introduce children to stamp collecting through our stamp-saver program. The Looney Tunes stamps are very popular," said Stephanie Maag, retail supervisor of Granite City's main post office.

Daffy Duck collectibles to be sold at the Wal-Mart will be matted pages of the famous duck that features 10 postage stamps ($13.95); first-day covers; postal cards; free collectible, cancelled postmarked stamps and numerous retail merchandise. The Daffy Duck collectibles, along with that of other Looney Tunes/Merrie Melodies characters, will be sold in an

Granite City Wal-Mart manager Ken Stieffermann said that he is looking forward to "Daffy's big day."

"I think this is exciting and special," Stieffermann said. "Our employees are excited, as well. I think this is going to be a lot of fun, especially for the kids."

The 33-cent stamp will feature Daffy leaning against a rural mailbox with his trademark "That's Despicable!" look directed toward a mailbox.

THE LAW AND YOU
By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Many individuals do not realize the seriousness in violating an order of protection. In some cases, what may seem to be a relative minor violation can result in extremely serious consequences for the violator.

In on recent case, a husband and wife were married in 1982, and the marriage was dissolved in 1996. Subsequent to the divorce, the ex-wife obtained an order of protection against her former husband. In 1997, he was charged with violating the order of protection based on the fact that he sent a written note to his former wife with the intent of harassing her.

The ex-wife testified at trial that an envelope in the defendant's handwriting was received in the mail. In the envelope was a note that referred to prior charges brought by his ex-wife against him. He chided her and indicated that the charges had been dropped, which in fact was not true. The defendant later testified at the hearing that he wanted to send her a message that she could not keep harassing him. He wanted to show her that every time she "cried wolf" that the courts would not take notice. He testified that he did not intend to harass his former wife with this note but rather just wanted to send her a message. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. The defendant was sentenced to twenty-four months probation with a thirty-day jail sentence. On appeal, the defendant asserted that the term "harassment" in the domestic violence act was vague and overbroad. He also maintained that the State failed to prove him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of harassing his former wife.

The Appellate Court noted that the defendant's purpose in writing the note to inform his ex-wife that charges had been dropped but rather was an attempt to retaliate against her for filing the former charge in the first place. The Appellate Court also found that the defendant was attempting to intimidate her into not filing any charges in the future. The Court found that the jury could have reasonably concluded that the note was meant to be both sarcastic and distressing to his former wife. Under these circumstances, the defendant's conduct fell under the definition of harassment and the evidence was sufficient for the jury to find him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Denham elected new Pontoon Beach mayor

Presswood said this year's campaign was one of the cleanest he has seen in Pontoon Beach.

"I really think I went out there and worked the hardest to do what I had to do," he said. "Unfortunately, Jim had more friends and family working out there for him. I wish him the best of luck."

Denham received 573 votes, roughly 45 percent of the vote. Presswood was second with 436, and Wilson trailed with 210.

In the clerk's race, New Beginnings candidate Susan Daugherty received 539 votes, with Lara Dockwrat of the Neighbors Helping Neighbors Party receiving 375 and Carlene Whitehead of the Continuous Action Party getting 289.

In the race for three open trustee positions, the top vote-getter was New Beginnings candidate Donald "Lee" Ridgeway with 538, followed by fellow party members Lowell Travis with 529 and Michael Pagano with 511.

Neighbors Helping Neighbors candidate Dave Levy was fourth with 415, followed by running mates Doty Kelly and with 350 and Brian Babilis at 339.

Continuous Action Party candidates brought up the rear with Randy Viessman getting 294 votes, Linda McFarland receiving 289 and Byron Wampler 279.

The race for mayor was especially heated and controversial. Early in the campaign, Police Chief Michael Crouch had filed an objection to Denham's nominating petitions, claiming he should have been thrown off the ballot because of technical errors.

However, the Village's Electoral Board voted 2-1 to keep Denham on the ballot and a judge upheld that ruling after it was challenged in court by Crouch.

Most recently, a local newspaper ran a story Saturday about sexual harassment complaints being filed against Wilson with the Illinois Department of Human Rights by several female employees with the police department.

Dave Espinoza, a spokesman for the IDHR, confirmed Friday that three charges of sexual harassment were issued against Wilson that day. In addition, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is also investigating the complaints.

Espinoza said the IDHR has one year to investigate the charges. If enough evidence of harassment is found, the case would be turned over to their legal department to reach a financial settlement for the victims.

One of the original complaints was filed with the IDHR in Springfield on March 26 by a dispatcher with the police department. Officials with the EEOC's Chicago office declined comment. But the IDHR document stated that the charges were also to be forwarded to the EEOC.

In her complaint, the dispatcher said a "sexually hostile work environment has been perpetrated by (Mayor) Glen Wilson" and that his actions have created a "hostile, intimidating work atmosphere."

In documents filed with the complaint, the dispatcher claimed that Wilson "frequently touched my shoulder or back and had the continuous habit of getting too close to me in an uninvited and offensive manner."

Other specific actions were described as taking place in November 1998 and January 1999.

The attorney who filed the complaint, Bernard G. Segatto of Springfield, declined comment on the case, saying he could neither "confirm nor deny" that the charge had been filed.

There have been rumors for the past several weeks that charges were expected to be filed, and last week, one of the women involved gave copies of some of the documents to the Granite City Journal. On April 8, another person with ties to one of Wilson's opponents provided more documentation, including a copy of the complaint with a received date stamp by the IDHR.

One of the women involved in the case also said that the filing of the charges had been delayed because several of the people involved wanted public knowledge of the accusations to come out after the elections. Her complaint had been signed and notarized on Feb. 10.

Wilson said the charges were politically motivated lies. "It's a lie, it's a bare-faced lie," he said last week.

On Wednesday, Wilson said the story probably had some effect on the outcome of the elections.

"It didn't help and it wasn't true, that's all I can tell you," he said.

In other municipal elections, city council members in Madison and Venice were unopposed.

It's been here about 30 years, and we thought, 'Wouldn't it make a nice business?'" Koberna said.

She and her husband previously operated a hobby shop in Granite City. They bought the property in December 1995 and immediately began renovations to open the restaurant and gift shop.

Roy Koberna and two of their three sons started the renovation and had it about half completed when a fire in March 1996 interrupted the work.

"We got the fire alarm at about 11," Diane Koberna said. "We had been having false alarms, and we just thought this was another one. Then Roy called and said, 'You better get down here.'"

When I got here, they were throwing my kitchen cabinets out the front window," she said.

The Kobernas said they took time to regroup and decided to go on with their original plans. They already had placed orders for equipment and materials, aiming for a June 1996 opening.

"Orders started showing up at our home," Koberna said.

Because of the extensive fire damage, the Kobernas hired a contractor to finish the renovations. The fire had gutted the house, leaving only the original brick walls and the walnut staircase.

In October 1996, Glenwood Manor House opened.

"We were so intent on trying to get it opened that we just opened," Koberna said. "Then, one month later, we had a grand opening."

"That first week, people were so excited to see us open, it was crazy," she said. "We were taking people to the park-and-ride lot across Interstate 270. We had drivers and everything. It was crazy."

The Kobernas employ 10 people part time to help them run the restaurant and gift shop. The gift shop is open daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and lunch is served each day at 11 a.m.

Evenings are reserved for groups and parties. The menu of family favorites and contributions from the kitchen staff includes special soups, salads and sandwiches from light to hearty fare.

Flavored coffees and cappuccino, raspberry iced tea, soft drinks and beer, along with fresh desserts made daily, complete the menu.

Four sunny dining rooms are decorated with tile painting by Diane Koberna and other staff members, and stained glass creations of Roy Koberna. He has been making stained glass for about 30 years and also teaches classes in a studio set up in the lower level of the house, he said.

Roy Koberna said he enjoys teaching his craft to others.

"I was into woodworking, and I wanted stained glass doors for some cabinets," he said. "I decided to do it myself, so I learned how and I liked it better."

Over the years he has made stained glass projects for his church.

"I did a life-size crucifix, and donated it to Hope Lutheran (in Granite City)," he said. "Then, the congregation wanted stained glass windows in the church."

Koberna taught a group of men from the church how to do stained glass, then the congregation took donations to pay for the supplies and they built five 10-by-2-foot panels depicting "just about every story from the Bible," he said.

It took the group about two years to complete the project. "Now they can sit back and look at the little piece they did," he said.

A stained glass class Koberna teaches at the United Steel Workers Association/Granite City Steel Learning Center just completed a 5-by-6-foot panel. That project took $740 in materials and about 240 man-hours, said Linda Bardelmeier, program coordinator for the Learning Center.

gone back to sleep.

"He got everybody out, we're very thankful for that," Foley said.

The fire department was notified at about 3:14 a.m., and arrived at 3:16 a.m.

"The southwest corner of the building was fully involved," Foley said. "It had such a good start, once it got into that roof, it was hard to get to."

Foley said there apparently was a delay in calling the fire department because people were more concerned about getting out of the building safely. He also said when all those residents fled their apartments, the open doors created drafts that fed the flame, helping it spread. Firefighters from Mitchell, Venice, Long Lake and Granite City assisted in fighting the fire. Residents were taken to the Madison Recreation Center and the Red Cross found temporary housing for them.

Most of the residents lost everything they owned. Randy Ingram, who has lived in the apartment for the past five years, got out with a few clothes he took when he evacuated the building, and a frying pan firefighters found after the blaze had been put out.

"Somebody woke me up and said get out, that's all I know," he said. "Grabbed an armful of clothes, went back in, couldn't see no more so I said the hell with it and got out."

He said the clothes and frying pan were all that he had left.

"I woke up about 3 a.m. this morning, somebody was beating on the door," said Arthur Gibber, who has lived there for the past six months. "I opened the door and the hallway was full of smoke."

Tiger tales

Edwardsville baseball prominent in record book

When Althoff High School ended Edwardsville High School's 49-game baseball winning streak Saturday in the second game of a doubleheader, it sent me to the Illinois High School Association record section on its web site to see where the latest Tigers' long winning streak stood in the annals of Illinois prep baseball.

I knew Edwardsville already owned the state consecutive winning streak, going 64 straight from April 18, 1990, to June 4, 1991. The Tigers now own the second-longest winning streak as well, with the 49-game winning streak that included a 40-0 record last season when they won their second IHSA Class AA state baseball title. The Tigers tacked on nine wins to start this season before being upended by Althoff 6-5. As you might imagine, the highly successful Edwardsville baseball program can be found often in the state record book, both in the all-time section, and, of course, in the state tournament section.

In addition to the state record 49-game winning streak, the Tigers also own the Class AA record for most state titles with two. Their other state championship came in 1990. Amazingly, Edwardsville is the only two-time Class AA state champion in the 21-year history of the tournament. The Tigers also have posted more wins (11) than any other team in the Class AA state tournament.

Other Edwardsville notable accomplishments at the state level include:

- 40 wins last season — fourth all-time for wins in a season.
- 39 wins in 1991 — sixth all-time for wins in a season.
- 51 consecutive wins during the regular season (1990-91) — first all-time.
- 15 shutouts in 1998 — tied for second all-time.

It's little wonder that the Tigers rolled to the 1990 state championship. In beating Champaign Centennial 3-0, Chicago Simeon 8-1 and Joliet Catholic 4-1, the Tigers had several notable accomplishments that make the IHSA record book.

Edwardsville's pitchers allowed only two runs in the tournament, allowed only one walk, struck out 29 batters, had an earned run average of 0.30 and allowed only one earned run in 23 innings. All of those pitching statistics are Class AA state tournament records. Also notable in the Tigers' run to the state title in 1991 was 23 stolen bases, including 15 in the semifinal win over Chicago Simeon. Those marks are two more state records for the Tigers.

The architect of the Tigers' success was Tom Pile, who retired after last season. Heading into the 1999 season, Pile ranked No. 7 on the all-time win list among Illinois baseball coaches with 569 wins, including 509 at Edwardsville. Current Belleville West coach Chuck Hasenstab ranks No. 8 on the same list with 552 wins, while Larry Patton, who coached from 1967-83 at Belleville East, ranks No. 10 with 545 wins.

Individually, Edwardsville boasts the all-time winningest pitcher in one season in Ben Hutton, who won 18 games (against no losses) last season. He tied Bob Hallas of Chicago Marist, who won 18 games in 1978.

Granite City overcomes lethargic start to win

Edwardsville as it had the previous two contests: asleep at the wheel.

But the Warriors, who had not won in their last two outings, rallied to post a 2-1 victory against the Tigers.

"Our start of the game was incredible," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "I mean we are so lethargic at the beginning of games. Our sweeper, (Jessica) Vasiloff, played so well but she is so passive to get it started. Once she gets into it she's terrific." Edwardsville took advantage of the Warriors' lethargy with a goal 22 seconds into the game. Tigers forward Lindsay Anderson took a pass from Erin Gusewille and, as the Granite City defense backed into the area, let loose a left-footed shot that found the back of the net.

But the Warriors, who improved to 2-1-1, turned the game around.

Smith wins again at Tri-City Speedway

Special to the Press-Record

Craig "Baby Bubb" Smith dominated the field to win his second NASCAR Winston Racing Series Budweiser Late Model feature Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

Smith started the feature from the third row pole, alongside dad, Bubb Smith. Pole-sitter David Bardin led at the drop of the green with Mark Freeman and the younger Smith nipping at his heels. Bubb Smith asserted a little parental authority and took the third spot away.

In his bid to catch up, Craig Smith got into turn three too hot and painted the guard rail with his right rear.

Coming out of turn four completely sideways, he climbed over the right front of Terry McClintock, sending both careening toward the concrete pit wall.

Both regained control with nothing more than hurt pride.

Bubb Smith took command of the race, but within two laps "Baby Bubb" was camped on his back bumper. Craig Smith bided his time and with nine to go, took the lead from Bubb Smith at the line.

Craig Smith, an Alton High School sophomore, won his debut two weeks prior. Racing was postponed April 3 due to the weather.

Rounding out the top five were McClintock, Mark Freeman and Marc Roberson. The qualifiers were a family act with the Smiths snaring the wins. Tim Barrett took the measure of the qualifier and his second main event of the season. Chasing him across the stripe were Wes Weinman and Jerry Degrendele. Weinman also won a qualifier.

Wade Glover won his first Mountain Dew Street Circuit feature of the year, beating B.J. Seels and Josh Carroll.

Carroll, Bob Williams and Rick Conroy took the qualifiers with Mike Gruenfelder winning the Semi.

Bob Capps topped the Pepsi GenerationNext Chargers, with heat winner Randy Braman and Scott Rainey trailing. Audie Murphy raced home ahead of Jim Murphy and Fred White in the Saturday Night Cruisers feature. Darryl Buder took the heat win.

Cycle Fest

Roger Lee Hayden gave motorcycle fans at Gateway International Raceway a glimpse of his vast potential Saturday.

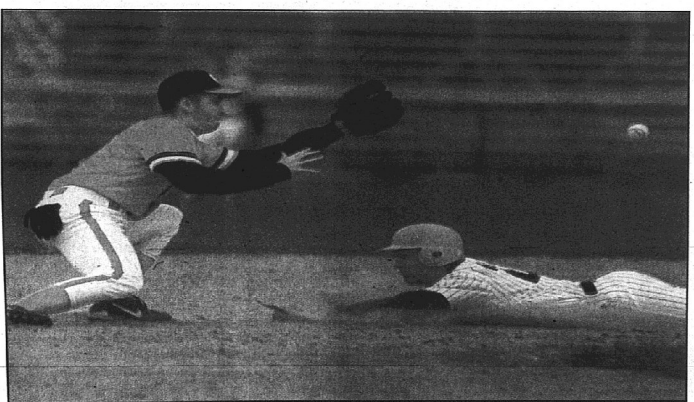

The 15-year-old from Owensboro, Ky., who will start on the AMA's MBNA Superbike pro circuit after his birthday on May 30, gave a fitting farewell performance to the amateur ranks, capturing five different class victories during the afternoon's eight-lap championship runs on the 1.6-mile Gateway road course. It was part of the final day of the inaugural Super National Cycle Fest at the Gateway complex.

"Right now I'm looking to get laps, get smoother and get ready for what's coming. I'm counting the days," said Hayden, who gave his trophies to several friends after the victory ceremony. Many of them asked him to autograph the base of the memento.

David Frawley of St. Peters, Mo., took home B and C Production Novice titles and the B Superbike crown. Hayden, and the hundreds of other cyclists who competed at Gateway, had to battle wind gusts of up to 40 mph on Sunday. The weather forced the International Drag Bike Association to cut its competition from quarter-mile to eighth-mile for the day. That

PREP BASEBALL

The Lancers beat Granite City 4-0, extending its season-opening win streak to 15 games.

Belleville East scored the run it would need in the top of the third inning. Lancers pitcher Dante Brinkley helped his cause by doubling to center field and coming around to score on a single by Louis Beatty.

East scored its second run in the top of the fourth against Granite City pitcher Jason Newman. Lancers designated hitter Keith Tillotson reached first on a fielding error charged to Warriors second baseman Jeff Schiecht. Mark LaPlantz ran for Tillotson and promptly stole second. After the next two batters each fled out to center, Bart Bennett squeezed a bloop single that glanced off the glove of the diving Schiecht and allowed LaPlantz to score.

The Lancers, who had reached double figures six times this season, were silent until adding two more in the

D Dowdy named McKendree's assistant soccer coach

Special to the Press-Record
The 1996 National Junior College Women's Soccer Player of the Year, Staci Dowdy, has joined the McKendree College athletics staff. Dowdy has been appointed as the Bearcats' women's soccer assistant coach.

"I am thrilled to join a program that is on the move," Dowdy said. "I have been involved in soccer for as long as I can remember and I am excited to have the opportunity to coach at such a prestigious college and to experience another aspect of the game."
A 1996 graduate of Granite City High School, Dowdy was a two-time All-American at Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey. During her sophomore year, Dowdy led the nation in scoring with 28 goals and 20 assists.
"We have added an outstanding individual to our coaching staff," said McKendree head coach Tim Strange. "Staci will be a tremendous asset to our program because of her experience as one of the nation's top collegiate athletes and because of her desire to continue her ties in soccer through coaching."

Coach Strange and I have the same soccer philosophy," Dowdy said. "We both advocate the same style of play with a lot of passing and footwork."
In addition to their matching coaching styles, Dowdy and Strange both played at Saint Louis University. Strange was a four-year letter winner for the Billikens while Dowdy completed two years of her college soccer career with the new program at SLU.
Dowdy, a marketing major, expects to graduate from SLU in May. In addition to coaching at McKendree, Dowdy plans to pursue a master's degree in business administration or advertising.

Strange, who has coached the McKendree men's soccer team since 1994, was appointed head coach of the women's team in January.

Granite City rallies to defeat Edwardsville

City scored the equalizer. Melissa Montgomery sent a long feed into the box. Christina Withers' hard shot hit the crossbar, but Amber Hubert was there to put away the rebound.

The Warriors' Debra Aaron was credited with the game-winning goal in the 52nd minute. Aaron took the ball out of the air and headed a shot wide, but a Tigers defender deflected it into her own goal.

"It was basically a lucky shot," Aaron said. "I headed for the corner and it was a little wide and it hit their girl's head and went right into their own goal."

Three Edwardsville players got booked in the last 14 minutes of the game. Aaron's mere presence in the lineup was a pleasant surprise for the Warriors. She had been injured during the April 7 game against Incarnate Word Academy of north St. Louis County. The run-in bought her a trip to the hospital.

"I feel a lot better," Aaron said Monday. "My mouth is still a little bit sore, but that will heal in time. Everything else is all right. There were just a few dislodged teeth, they were really loose, and just soreness in my jaw."

"I think that we started off slow in the first half, but in the second half we started playing more like a team and thinking about where we were going to pass it to and did a lot better in the second half," Aaron said.

"I thought Debra's second half was pretty good," Baker said. "I'm pretty happy with her. I thought, coming off of the injury, she was a big factor in the win. And Melissa (Montgomery) was dominant."

But these somnambulant beginnings are growing bothersome to the Warriors coach.

"It's the girls," Baker said. "It's a little bit of the nature of what they are — they are a pretty passive, laid-back group and you can't be that way. That's what we are trying to identify. They get confused. Debra Aaron is a physical-looking player, but she is not aggressive in personality or aggressive to the ball. When she is, she is very good. I thought she was tonight, she showed what she can do tonight. There were a couple of times where she showed good agility on the ball to fight through here in the corner. Amber Hubert could be a dominant player, but she's not in shape yet. Keri Ousley was usually in better shape last year. She has had trouble with the second and third effort and we need more of that from her."

The Warriors were scheduled to play O'Fallon at home on Wednesday.

Granite City's Debra Aaron was credited with the winning goal against Edwardsville on Monday.

Warriors fall to unbeaten Lancers seventh, Brinkley's one-out walk started the rally. He advanced to second on a passed ball. Schutzenhofer also walked and was forced out at second on Beatty's groundball. The Warriors could have ended the inning on Brinkley's baserunning but were unable to get the final out. Brad Bone made them pay with a triple to drive in Brinkley and Beatty.

"We had the third out here in the seventh," Granite City coach Gus Lignoul said. "When they had first and second we got a groundball to third and we went to second with a runner on second who went back. We had him in a rundown here, so we could have gotten out of that inning. Rather than going to first base to try to get the double play, we had a sure out because the kid went back."

"Then the next kid hits a triple that scores two runs," Lignoul said. "Belleville East relief pitcher Mike Johnson closed out the Warriors 1-2-3 in the bottom of the seventh."

"We feel very fortunate to come up here and beat a good team," Belleville East coach Dennis Schutzenhofer said. "They have had some misfortune this year, but they are a good team. They are solid, they don't make many mistakes, they got a good pitching effort from Newman. We feel very fortunate. We had some timely hitting. My pitchers did a great job."

The Lancers, who recorded their seventh shutout, got sterling play out of shortstop Steve Sommer, whose backup of Bennett's miscue on Elliot Dine's groundball kept the Warriors from mounting a threat in the seventh.

"Steve is a junior, he has made all the plays for us," Schutzenhofer said. "That's one of the reasons for our success is that we don't make any mistakes in the field. We have just played errorless in the field, we've gotten good pitching and some timely hitting, and that's a good combination. We feel very fortunate to beat Granite City. That is a good club and they are getting better."

Granite City had six innings for the Warriors, giving up just four hits and four runs — three of them earned. He struck out four.

"We are making improvements," Lignoul said. "We're getting better in all areas of the game. I thought Jason Newman did a nice job today. He held our team in the area to four runs, and the one run when we had a misplay on the groundball by the second baseman was an unearned run."

"But the thing that I like is that we are making improvements in all areas. We are better defensively. We stood up there and we swung it pretty good today, we hit some balls hard. We are not beating ourselves. We have to do a little better job and obviously score more runs, but the kids have got a good attitude."

Granite City is trying to awaken its lumber, which has been slumbering early in the season. "We hit some balls hard today," Lignoul said. "We are still striking out too many times and we are not moving runners along like we should. But we just need to keep working at it. That's all we can do — just keep working hard at it and string a few hits together. The thing that we really need now is when we have some runners on we need somebody to step up and hit one in the gap, just continue to work hard, things are going to come around and come our way."

intent to play basketball next winter for McKendree College, led the Metro East in scoring with 23.5 points per game.

Danielle Lawary of Belleville West became the Maroons all-time leader scorer in school history. Lawary averaged 17.7 points a game.

O'Fallon's Elizabeth Simmons was chosen as an alternate. Kay Robbins of Bloomington was named the South squad's head coach with Ed Moore of Lincoln High and George Reed of Mattoon serving as assistants.

Other members of the South team include Mindy Albritton (Peoria Richwoods), Sharm Blade (Peoria Central), Renee Brubaker (Salem), Tara Coleman (LaSalle-Peru), Beth Drake (Bloomington), Tracy Farrell (Ottawa), Jamie Gathing (Kankakee), Sarah Larson (Galesburg), Rasheeda Love (Mount Vernon), Stacey Nickerson (Washington), Stephanie Reichle (Lincoln), Jennifer Rudis (Springfield Sacred Heart-Griffin) and Jamie Smith (Springfield).

The IBCA also announced its coach of the year award, which was won by Dorothy Gaters of state champion Chicago Marshall.

prevented several competitors who had run record times and speeds from making them official with a "back-up" run within one percent of the record run.

"That's frustrating, but what can you do. The day started in a head wind, then ended with a tail wind — but the funny thing is we were running the same times all day long," said defending IBCA Pro Modified champion Bill Vose of Swedeland, Pa., who had a potential record time in the 6.7-second range knocked out by the weather. He cruised to a victory in his class as did No. 1 qualifier Bryan

Bennett of Herring, Ill., in Funny Bike. In Pro Stock, 1997 IBCA points champ Al Papitto of Vero Beach, Fla., took a big step toward regaining the title with a win over 1998 champ Stephen Inoue of Santa Fe, N.M.

Omicron Master sorority elects 1999-2000 officers

The first March meeting of Omicron Master sorority was held in the home of Delores Dortch. President Imogene Forrest led the opening ritual. Minutes were taken and read by Joyce Alexander. An acknowledgment of a contribution to Toys for Joy was received from Don Coughran.

Delores reminded members of the annual garage sale in April. Bea Brackett read highlights from the Torch magazine, the official publication of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

The program of "Perfume" was given by Alice Konieczny. The use of incense and Myrah from Biblical days to the present-day methods of distillation and manufacturing were discussed. Each member chose a different fragrance as her favorite.

Attending were Arlene Haldeman, Juanita Calve and Pat Tsigolaroff.

Bea Brackett was hostess for the St. Patrick's Day meeting at her home. Members all wore green and responded to roll call with an Irish phrase. A letter from Jane Stevens, a former member, was read.

Arlene Haldeman has sent the chapter's donation to the Girl Scout Council. The Make it or Bake it item, donated by Lora Lombardi, was awarded to Ruth Stoyanoff.

Officers elected for the 1999-2000 term were: president, Alrie Konieczny; vice president, Imogene Forrest; treasurer, Delores Dortch; recording and corresponding secretary, Arlene Haldeman; extension officer, Lora M. Lombardi.

A survey was distributed by Imogene Forrest, with reference to activities in the coming year.

In keeping with the thought of "green," Arlene presented her program on "Salad." A written quiz on the identity of fruits and vegetables and states or countries of highest production was enjoyed.

At left, Roy Koberna works on a stained-glass project at The Learning Center in downtown Granite City. Above, some stained-glass class members look over at their finished project, which will be placed in the main entrance of the center, which is a joint venture of Granite City Steel and the United Steelworkers of America local. The center offers open-ended classes on just about every subject imaginable to give workers a chance to learn new skills or adopt new hobbies.

Stained glass...and a whole lot more

Granite City steelworkers learn hobbies at union, company's Learning Center

Roy Koberna's stained glass students at the steel worker's Learning Center wanted something more challenging after their first three class sessions.

Up to now, they had only made a stepping stone with embedded glass, a foil panel of a tulip and a mirror.

What they ended up tackling was a four-foot by five-foot window for the front of their building.

The United Steelworkers Association/Granite City Steel Learning Center is a facility in downtown Granite City where union members can take classes ranging from woodcarving to computer programming to scuba diving, said program coordinator Linda Bardelmeier.

Bardelmeier has headed up the program since April 1996. "It opened in January of 1996 and at least 500 to 600 of the 2,000 eligible steel workers have taken advantage of it," she said.

The school is open-ended, meaning members can take as many classes as they want to and for as long as they want, she said.

"The stained-glass class thought they needed something more advanced," Bardelmeier said.

She had just the idea to offer them: The front of the Learning Center.

Koberna's class members fashioned their stained-glass window with familiar scenes of the steel factory. The union logo in the center has more than 135 pieces of colored glass. The large panel also features a picture of the hot-roll process and another of the heavy equipment used to transport the huge rolls of steel.

Koberna said the materials alone for the stained glass cost $740. The nine members of the class took 12 weeks to complete the project. The class session was only supposed to be eight weeks long.

That means the value of the window is nearly immeasurable, Koberna said.

The stained glass will be mounted in the front office of the Learning Center, behind existing glass and a new sheet of plexiglass. The class members who built it are nervous about their work getting broken.

"We'll take turns sitting outside all night to protect it," one of them joked.

One class member, Lyle Parker, 46, of Mitchell, continues to make stained glass at home. "Me and my wife have done about 10 projects already," he said. "We made one with a bass, one with a firetruck and one of a water fountain," he said.

Parker and his wife, Debbie, 46, took their first stained-glass class with Koberna last spring. "We made a lot of Christmas presents," Debbie Parker said. "Plus, we made them for a lot of other people to give to a lot of others for Christmas," she said.

Both Parkers say they plan to continue making stained glass at home. Bardelmeier said the Learning Center hires a lot of independent instructors like Koberna. They also contract with instructors through Belleville Area College and other colleges.

"What we try to do is keep a diverse set of classes to attract as many students as possible," Bardelmeier said. "That's why we have everything from woodworking to on-line trading," she said.

Classes are scheduled for mornings, afternoons and evenings so that shift workers can attend classes around their work schedule, Bardelmeier said.

The Learning Center is on the ground floor of an old building on State Street just north of Niedringhaus, near Granite City Steel.

"The stained-glass class thought they needed something more advanced."

Brothers gets help from trips

Famed psychologist appears at mall

By Mark Hodapp
Correspondent

It was a strange question, Dr. Joyce Brothers thought initially. What would I want on my tombstone?

"I never thought about that," she said.

But after some thought, Brothers said she wants her tombstone to read that "she tried to be helpful."

The famed psychologist, author and radio and television commentator tries to help people in a number of ways, including giving lectures. Brothers spoke Saturday on "Unlocking the Hidden Powers" at St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights.

"Traveling has gotten a little old for me," she said, laughing.

But Brothers finds it's important to give lectures in different parts of the country and in other countries.

"If you think (the way that) New Yorkers think is the way the rest of the country thinks, you are 180 degrees off base," she said. As Brothers sees it, the best part of speaking is hearing people's questions. These questions give her a sense of what worries people, what touches their hearts, how they behave and what they care about.

She hopes people get information they never thought about from her lectures. For instance, Saturday she gave a quiz on sexual appeal.

"I want people to know that you can be sexually appealing at any age," she said.

She pointed out when Marilyn Monroe died, she was considered over the hill at 33.

"But now you can be fantastic at 40, fabulous at 50, sizzling at 60, and we may even get to be sensational at 70, who knows?" Brothers said.

Brothers has overcome many setbacks in her own life.

Her husband died 10 years ago after a two-year battle with cancer.

Brothers, who has been identified as one of America's most influential and admired women in George Gallup and United Press International

Karaoke hits the right note with customers

Area night spots let patrons supply the entertainment

By Larry Ingram
and Mike Heil
Staff writers

A number of bars and taverns in the area are letting their customers do the entertaining.

Karaoke — where amateur singers take the stage with the help of recorded music — has become a weekly staple at many area night spots.

One area bartender, Heskil "Eddy" Whitaker, of Bobby's Night Club in O'Fallon, says that customers would sing past closing time if they could.

"When we're shutting the bar down, they're wanting to get up there and sing," Whitaker said. "They just have a lot of fun doing it."

"We have regulars who can sing and those who give it their best shot," said Billy Dallas, a disc jockey who conducts, along with Steve Rain, the weekend karaoke shows at Ralph and Charlie's Steakhouse in Pontoon Beach.

"It doesn't matter how talented they are," he said. "They always walk away with a smile."

On a recent Friday night, a host of festive vocalists gathered to showcase their talents at Ralph and Charlie's. The evening was kicked off by Carl Byrd of Granite City and Phil Minner of Pontoon Beach.

The duo sang the Everly Brothers' classic hit, "Dream, Dream, Dream." After their three-minute performance, Byrd and Minner agreed they are a far cry from the famous brother act.

"We come here every so often and try to sing. We're definitely not the Everly Brothers, not even close," said Byrd, 48.

Michelle Forsys, 28, of Edwardsville, was another vocalist who strutted her stuff. She said she has enjoyed singing since childhood.

"I wish it was my vocation and not my avocation," Forsys said. "It's just a good time to get up there and mess around."

The evening featured many performers of all ages. Five-year-old Jonathan Bundy had everybody clapping to the "Hokie Pokie."

Debra Slipe, 21, of Mitchell, who attended with several friends, said she gets stage fright when she performs.

"The first time, I froze," Slipe said. "I mean, nothing came out. I don't think I'll get too nervous tonight. It looks like a relaxed atmosphere."

Woody's, 1501 N. Belt West, in Belleville also has a steady karaoke following.

Woody's bartender Emily Layman says a lot of country songs are favorites to sing to. She said people will get up and dance to the karaoke music.

The karaoke at Woody's is produced by Ron Gither.

"We have four or five really talented singers," Layman said.

Karaoke starts at 9:30 p.m.,

Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at Woody's.

At Bobby's Night Club, karaoke starts at 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday. That means a good four or five hours of singing.

"Sometimes we hold contests," Whitaker said. "You get quite a few good singers."

At the "B" Street Bar in Belleville, bartender Jim Rogers said changes in the karaoke DJs is being made to increase the participation. Rogers said a lot of the karaoke crowd comes from people who work in St. Louis.

Karaoke at "B" Street Bar starts at 9:30 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Another Belleville bar, Robin's Nest, 1614 Mascoutah Ave., offers karaoke at 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday.

Back at Ralph and Charlie's, karaoke concluded at 4 a.m. — seven hours after Byrd and Minner let loose.

Dallas, who has been the DJ the past six years, said he enjoys his role in promoting the entertainment.

"I like getting people involved," Dallas said. "If they won't come up, I'll try to get them to sing from their tables. If they won't do that, I'll try to get them to dance."

Why do people want to get up and sing in front of people?

"It's like when you're sitting in your car and you think you have a good voice," said Whitaker. "It makes people want to get-up and try it out."

polls, also met some resistance when she was a student at Columbia University.

"When I started at Columbia (University), the head of the psychology department called me in, and I thought how nice, he's going to welcome me," Brothers said upon reflection.

But he told Brothers she was accepted into the psychology department only because her test scores and grades were "head and shoulders" above her peers. He added each student must have a professor assigned to them.

As it turns out, Brothers was the only woman who was accepted into the psychology program at Columbia University that year.

"I felt I was in the wrong," she said. "But I really wanted this training."

Brothers now writes a daily column published in more than 175 newspapers worldwide. She also has appeared in numerous television series, including "Baywatch," "Picket Fences," "Grace Under Fire" and "The Nanny."

She also was the first person to do a television show that dealt exclusively with people's problems. But Brothers found that a difficult market to enter, too. She recalled taking her idea to an NBC station, and talking them into doing a show where people would ask her questions. "(The station) believed in it and gave me a firm four-week contract," she said.

Her program grew and eventually was syndicated. In fact, Brothers has been on the air, in one form or another, every day since 1958.

Brothers said she still enjoys working. "It makes me feel my life is worthwhile. And it's very nice to be in a position where you are helping people at the same time helping yourself."

Mahatma Gandhi's grandson

Arun Gandhi makes appearance at SIUE

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Arun Gandhi was a vengeful and angry young man until his parents sent him to live with his grandfather — legendary civil rights leader Mohandas K. "Mahatma" Gandhi.

Arun Gandhi told stories to a group of students and faculty at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville on Thursday afternoon before his keynote speech in the Meridian Ballroom later that evening.

He had grown up as a person of Indian heritage in South Africa during apartheid and had felt discrimination from both whites and blacks. Arun Gandhi was about 14 years old when he left South Africa to spend 18 months with his grandfather in India.

He told a story about a time he had thrown an old pencil into the bushes. When the younger Gandhi asked his grandfather for another pencil, he was asked a lot of questions and given a flashlight to look for the old pencil.

After nearly three hours of searching, the pencil was located and brought back inside. The elder Gandhi said Arun had been wasteful with the world's natural resources and could be denying those sources for poor people elsewhere.

"All of us are violent because we're doing passive acts of violence," Arun Gandhi said. "He said throwing away the pencil was an act of violence against both nature and society. Passive violence fuels the fire of physical violence. We have to start with ourselves and then we can progress from there."

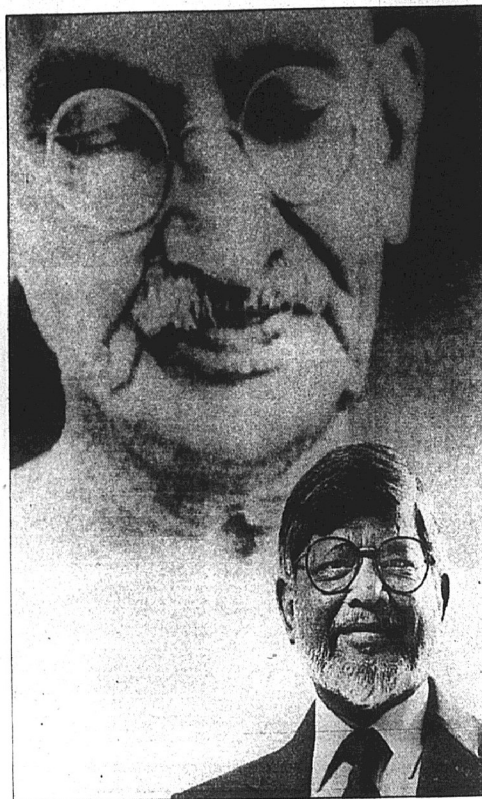

He also spoke of his grandfather's philosophy that it is essential for parents to practice what they preach. Arun Gandhi said another boy lived at his grandfather's ashram and ate sweets until his skin broke out with boils and sores.

The boy's parents told him to stop eating sweets but he didn't obey. Mahatma Gandhi talked to the boy for about 30 seconds, however, and convinced the boy to stop eating sweets. The wise man had said he would not eat sweets until the boy got better. The whole time, the parents had been eating sweets, yet telling the boy that he could not.

After his turbulent early years, Arun Gandhi eventually began to follow in his grandfather's footsteps as a seeker of peace. At age 23, he began work as a reporter for the Times of India. He founded the Center for Social Unity and later came to the U.S. to research the comparison of prejudices in South Africa, India and the U.S.

In 1991, he and his wife, Sunanda, founded the M.K. Gandhi Institute for Nonviolence at Christian Brothers University at Memphis.

'Go': 'Mad, Mad, Mad World' for the '90s

Weird characters, plot twists make movie a success

There's Todd (Timothy Olyphant), the drug dealer who's "uncontrollably drawn" to the Family Circus comic strip. There's Burke (William Fichtner), the strange cop who might be looking for an unusual sexual tryst — or might be trying to sell you something. And there's the supermarket cashier who does a produce-aisle Macarena with a customer in a drug-induced vision.

MOVIE REVIEW

These are some of the myriad weird characters and moments in "Go," a post-slacker tale of a debauched night in Los Angeles that features some of today's most popular young actors — and some of the more innovative mainstream filmmaking thus far this year.

Far superior to the early-1980s paean "200 Cigarettes," its ensemble-cast cousin of recent months, "Go," set in the present, offers a pleasing grab bag of narrative twists, quick-cut scenes and odd characters who manage to be simultaneously disgusting and compelling. Imagine "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" if it had been about scoring drugs, and you'll get some idea of what's going on.

With "Go," though, farce is only the first level.

The "plot" (though that term seems too conventional for this movie): Ronna (Sarah Polley), a savvy supermarket cashier desperate for rent money, embarks on a plot to dupe a drug dealer (Olyphant) and pass off pain medication as the popular drug X-tasy. She takes her ingenue friend, Claire (Katie Holmes of "Dawson's Creek") along for the ride.

Meanwhile, her grocery-store colleague, Simon (Desmond Askew), heads to Las Vegas for the weekend with his buddies, including Marcus (Taye Diggs).

Director Doug Liman ("Swingers") has created a film that's perfect for the audience it seeks — the media-savvy, late-teens and early 20s group that views such techniques as documentary-style photography, MTV-influenced quick cutting and Cuisinart-style Quentin Tarantino narrative techniques as birthrights, not innovations.

True, this is a violent and occasionally sexually graphic film, but "Go" ends up a pleasing package of quirkiness.

'Cheers' was one of best ever

Plots weren't great, but humor was

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

"Cheers" probably hung around a couple seasons too long, but it was still one of the best sitcoms ever on television.

The first five or six years of the show qualify as classic TV and, even in the leaner years, it continued to provide laughs. The 275 "Cheers" episodes aired on NBC from 1982 to 1993 and live on in syndication.

Sam, Diane, Coach, Norm, Cliff and Carla were the strongest lineup of characters on the program, though Woody, Rebecca, Frasier and Lilith had their moments. The banter at the bar was often hilarious.

My favorite "Cheers" character was Coach. It was a sad day when the actor who played him, Nicholas Colasanto, passed away. He would only contribute about three or four lines each episode, but every phrase that came out of his mouth was funny.

I felt the show also was hurt when Shelley Long left and was replaced by Kirstie Alley. I never got into Alley's whiny personality, but there was enough humor from other sources to keep me watching.

"Cheers" is an odd program to recall in that it was less about what was happening than what was said. While I am able to describe any number of plot situations from "Taxi" or "Get Smart" or "All in the Family," few of the "Cheers" episodes were about anything more than a variety of humorous discussions.

Oh, there were the times when John Cleese made a guest appearance with the several shows with the pranks played between taverns. However, most of the humor came from people merely talking about the events going on in their day.

For this week's trivia quiz, the topic is "Cheers."

1. What was the name of the rival bar that the "Cheers" gang often competed against in sports and pranks?
2. The Cheers bar had a wooden Indian called what?
3. What actor appeared on the show for a season as Evan Drake?
4. What was Sam Malone's nickname from his baseball days?

5. What was the first spinoff show from "Cheers"?
6. What would Diane say when Norm would walk into the bar?

7. Sam once almost lost the bar in a bet that he could marry what famous actress within a year?
8. Diane ended up working at Cheers after what unfortunate occurrence?

9. What was the name of the character who owned Melville's, the restaurant on the top floor of the Cheers building, in the last few years of the show?
10. Which major league baseball player did the Cheers gang pants in an episode?

ANSWERS: 1. Gary's Olde Towne Tavern. 2. Tecumseh. 3. Tom Skerritt. 4. "May Day." 5. "The Tortellis," in 1987. "Frasier" was the second. Many critics predicted that Cliff and Norm would be spun off into their own show, but it never happened. 6. "Norman." Everybody else yelled "Norm!" 7. Jacqueline Bisset. Michael Richards played the guy who tried to collect on the bet. 8. Her fiancé dumped her. 9. John Allen Hill. 10. Wade Boggs.

Book Fair parks in new location

By Sonia Ahuja
Staff writer

The Greater St. Louis Book Fair will celebrate its 50th year at a new location.

The book fair will be Thursday through Monday at the Saint Louis Galleria in Richmond Heights. Proceeds benefit the Nursery Foundation, one of the first interracial day-care centers in the country.

This year's fair features more than 1 million books, records and sheets of music, from more than 220 categories.

The sale was at West County Center, Manchester Road and Interstate 270, for the last six years. It had also been at the Famous-Barr store in Clayton from 1961 until it closed in 1991.

The Galleria, at Brentwood Boulevard and Clayton Road, was chosen as this year's site for several reasons, including anticipated renovations to West County Center, said Tracy Deater, co-chairman of this year's fair.

"The Galleria offered us a very central location which is very accessible," Deater said.

The northern half of the lower level of the Galleria parking garage will provide ample space for the 400 tables of items at this year's event, Deater said. This year's fair will probably have the largest selection of items thus far. Last year's event required 320 tables, she said.

Having the event in a parking garage breaks with tradition, but Deater believes the trade-off is a good one.

"We will not be exposed to the elements, if it happens to be raining cats and dogs," she said.

An auction at 8 p.m.

Thursday in the Galleria's Garden Court will feature rare and unusual items such as a 1906 edition of J.M. Barrie's "Peter Pan in Kensington Gardens," an 1878 edition of Samuel Johnson's "Lives of English Poets," a 1903 edition of Mark Twain's "Jumping Frog," an autographed 1948 biography of Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, and children's classics by Louisa May Alcott and Jules Verne.

A first edition of Stephen King's "The Shining" will also be available for bidding.

Admission is free, except for opening night, when $7 will be charged.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, APRIL 15
It's a lucky day. The phenomenon of the new moon in Aries is one of forgiveness, fresh starts and endless possibilities. Move forward into this clean cycle with the best of intentions, but remember, good intentions mean little without actions to back them up. Concentrate on what really motivates and inspires you now.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (April 15). If you stay true to your instincts, you can't lose. Don't worry about being criticized. Plentiful praise comes your way in the next two months. July sales result in a windfall. When work challenges your ego in August, you go for broke, getting that raise or promotion in record time. Love with a Taurus or Virgo is favored for you now.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Act on a romantic impulse. Someone nearby is full of intriguing ideas, and you can use this kind of inspiration. You may need to point out the obvious to an oblivious individual, but at least this will eventually make your life easier.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). An opponent makes an important slip, so be on your toes. Tempting offers come with strings attached. A decision doesn't have to be made after all. Financial matters take care of themselves. Let a loved one arrange a date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). By forgiving a family member's mistake, you help others (especially a child) get over a disappointment. Consider advertising your special skills and services for big money. A financial setback doesn't last long.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll get a chance to learn about or break in a new possession. Someone dear asks for more privacy—it has nothing to do with you. Keep your sense of humor during a tense situation. The stage is set for romance this evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You could find romance with someone of a different culture. Approach a disgruntled friend after this person has had a chance to cool off. Arguments are easily won. Family members are under a lot of pressure. Bills arrive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A crutch is no longer necessary. Give a new perspective to a pal's romantic dilemma. Money arrives from an unexpected source. Close relatives make confessions. A break from the daily grind helps preserve sanity.

'The Rage' offers preposterous plot

Brian Kaller
"The Rage: Carrie 2" opens one rainy night in a room filled with candles, where a woman mumbling about Satan is painting red streaks on her walls while her tiny daughter looks on.

MOVIE REVIEW

The woman is a religious fanatic who believes her daughter possessed by Satan. Soon, the woman is wheeled into an ambulance in a straightjacket, as a paramedic talks with the little girl in the rain.

Why all the candles? Why don't they turn on the light? Why the red streaks on the walls? Why don't the paramedic and the little girl just talk inside where it's dry? Don't bother asking, for it makes no more sense than anything else in this movie.

We flash forward 12 years, and the little girl, Rachel Lang (Emily Bergl), is now an attractive but outcast high school student. She lives with the latest in a long string of foster parents, and her only friends are classmate Lisa (Mena Suvari) and her dog. The movie then sets about destroying each of these things slowly and cruelly.

When Lisa's first lover, a member of the football team, turns out to only have been playing a cruel game, she jumps off the roof of the school and crashes onto a car below. It is indicative of the spirit of this movie that, rather than discreetly cutting to winning onlookers, the camera lingers lovingly on the smashed face from the other side of the windshield.

One of the only benevolent people in the film is Sue Snell (Amy Irving), the sole survivor of the 1976 original and the feeble justification for calling the movie "Carrie 2." Now a guidance counselor, Snell tries to reach out to Rachel but notices that cups and windows shatter when she gets mad, a fact that has escaped everyone else at the school.

Snell does some research and visits Rachel's mother in the mental asylum, and finds out that Rachel's mother had an affair with a man with the last name of White.

Piecing together the truth, Snell takes Rachel to the ruins of the old Bates High, which after 23 years have not been torn down, and tells her the story of the first movie.

"You and Carrie White are sisters!" Snell says. "You had the same father! And your talent is genetic! It's a recessive gene on the male Y chromosome!"

Of course, this is preposterous to anyone with a limited knowledge of biology, but this speech demands more basic questions:

- How did Snell come to have this genetic information?
- By the laws of evolution, wouldn't a useful trait like telekinesis be dominant?

• What are the odds that the same secretly telekinetic womanizer would successfully impregnate two rural religious fanatics in the same town 23 years apart?

Whether you like this movie will depend largely on your tastes. Do you enjoy seeing buxom teenage girls dismembered by flying computer-animated compact discs? Do you snuggle up to disembowelments? Do you stand up and cheer at torture?

A horror movie is made to be disturbing, and frightening, and horrifying, and this one is, although not in the way the filmmakers intended. It is disturbing that the studio allowed this movie to be released. It is frightening that people will go to see it. It is horrifying to think of the starving Third-World children that could have been saved with the millions of dollars used to perpetrate this movie.

Special effects, action make 'The Matrix' worthwhile

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

The world we live in is just illusion. In reality, we're all lying in tubes being kept alive by computers who are using us as batteries by harnessing our bio-electric energy.

Keanu Reeves stars as Thomas Anderson, unfulfilled software company worker by day, who at night becomes Neo, computer hacker and pirate. Neo has been searching for the truth behind The Matrix, a secret computer program. Or something.

His search draws the attention of opposing forces: the mysterious cyber terrorist Morpheus (Laurence Fishburne), and a group of mysterious, supposedly government, agents. The agents get to him first, and after experiencing various bizarre treatments at their hands, he awakens at home in bed.

He's then contacted by Trinity (Carrie-Anne Moss), an agent of Morpheus, who convinces Neo his time with the agents was not a dream when she pulls a living, metallic "bug" out his stomach.

They then go to meet Morpheus, who gives Neo a choice: go home and forget any of this ever happened, or learn the truth. Neo chooses truth, and wakes up in the hellish world described above. The Matrix turns out to be a virtual reality program that is the world as we know it. Morpheus is leading a small band of rebels trying to win humanity's freedom from the computers.

Despite mixing a half-dozen sci-fi plots, "The Matrix" is a dazzling tour de force of special effects and action.

Once the characters realize they are in a computer program, the sky's the limit.

They leap across buildings, walk on walls and freeze time itself for flying kicks and dodging bullets. The future world of robotic creatures is both impressive and disturbing.
